FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT POLYGRAPH TESTS:

- What if I'm nervous? It is normal for an innocent person to be nervous, the polygraph examiner is aware of this. Nervousness does not prevent them from distinguishing between truth and deception.
- How long does a polygraph test take? Examinations are approximately 2.5 hours. The examination involves various stages including consent forms, explanation of the instrument and how polygraphs works, a discussion of the reason for the test, an acquaintance test and the actual test. The test cannot be expedited by eliminating portions of the test.
- When and where do we conduct tests? Appointments are provided in Pickering, Ontario, Monday-Friday.
- How many questions do I get to ask? Polygraph allows 3 questions. Many clients have a list of questions that they wish to be answered. Often, the 3 questions can be worded in such a fashion that it includes all of your inquiries.
- Are there restrictions to who can take a test? Persons under 14 or women who are pregnant cannot be tested.
